1. Overview

One of our deliverables is an interface prototype of the proposed Family Artefact Register that we've built in Justinmind and included alongside this guide under the file name "Family Artefact Register Prototype.vp". The prototype can be viewed or edited using the Justinmind Prototyper, which is available without charge from <https://www.justinmind.com>.

To view the prototype, open it in the Justinmind Prototyper (installing the Justinmind Prototyper will automatically create a file association with its file format, meaning that you can open our prototype in the Justinmind Prototyper simply by double-clicking on it) and then click the "simulate" button available in the Justinmind Prototyper interface.

Clicking the "simulate" button will open a simulated browser window that can be used to browse our prototype as you would a website.

Our prototype provides models several different functions of the proposed Family Artefact Register, and the rest of this guide will be about walking you through those functions we've modeled in our prototype.

What we'll walk you through will comprise:

-  Our Introduction/Home page
-  Adding a new artefact
-  Adding a new event
-  Adding a new person
-  Displaying the artefacts
-  Performing an advanced search

The Home page shows the family quote section and photo of artefacts section. When the users click on “Learn more” button, it will show the video related to the Family Historical Artefacts Register. Moreover, when the users click on these photos, it will link to displaying artefacts in “Artefacts” Page.

It gives the overview of the family artefacts and memories.

The users would like to add the new artefacts, they can click on “New” on the Menu bar to access to the “Add new artefact” page. There are three sections on the page such as the artefact information, the uploading photo of artefacts and the controlling “Add new artefact” page. In term of the artefact information to describe the artefact, the artefact can be linked/connected to person, event and story. In case the system does not list the person, event or story, the users can add it though the “plus” button that would be linked to “Add new person” page, “Add new event” page or “Add new story” Page. After adding the new person or event or story, it would be back to the “Add new artefact” page to continue the process. Regarding the uploading photo of artefacts, the users can upload from their PC or select from the existing file and then write the comment. Finally, the controlling “Add new artefact” page, after completing these two section above, the users can decide to clear form to re-add the artefact or create the artefacts displayed on “Artefacts” page or cancel the whole process. It is noted that the users should provide the information in the fields and the person involved can be add later on.

4. Add New Event Page

The screenshot shows the 'Add new Event' page of the 'Artifacts Register' application. The page has a dark header with the 'Artifacts Register' logo and navigation links: Home, New (with a dropdown arrow), Artifacts, Advanced Search, and About Us. A search icon is also present. The main content area is titled 'Add new Event' and contains a form with the following fields: Event Name, Category, Location, Date, Description (with a placeholder 'Type something...'), Artefact Associated, and Person Involved. Below the 'Artefact Associated' field, there is a link 'Artefact not listed?' with a plus icon. Similarly, below the 'Person Involved' field, there is a link 'Person not listed?' with a plus icon. At the bottom of the form, there are three buttons: 'Clear Form', 'Create', and 'Cancel'. The footer of the page includes 'Support: Email or phone', 'copyrights @ Family Historical Artefacts Registry', and social media icons for Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, and Email.

The users would like to add the new event, they can click on “New” on the Menu bar to access to the “Add new event” page. There are two sections on the page such as the event information and the controlling “Add new event” page. In term of the event information to describe the event, the event can be linked/connected to the person and artefact. In case the system does not list the person and artefact, the users can add it though the “plus” button that would be linked to “Add new person” page and “Add new artefact” page. After adding the new person or artefact, it would be back to the Event page to continue the process. Regarding the controlling “Add new event” page, after completing the section above, the users can decide to clear form to re-add the event or create the event of artefacts or cancel the whole process. It is noted that the users should provide the information in the fields and the person involved can be add later on.

This is the page to display the list of the artefacts (the first photo). It shows from 1 to 4 the artefacts and the user can view more if they click on the “next” text. The users can find out the particular artefacts when they use “Search” function by using key words or when they use “sort by” function by using date and name of artefacts. Furthermore, the users may add the new person when they click on the “plus” button that will be linked to the “add new person” page. Plus, the users can share the artefacts and delete it by clicking on the symbol displayed next to the “plus” button.

The artefact is displayed in detail (the second photo) when the users click on the particular artefact. It shows all of information that the users have already added in the “Add new artefact”, “Add new event” and “Add new person” page. There are some of functions to control the particular artefact such as adding person, image and story, sharing the artefact, copying link and downloading the artefact.

7. Advanced Search Page

The screenshot shows the 'Advanced Search' page of the Family Historical Artefacts Registry. The page has a dark header with navigation links: 'Home', 'New', 'Artefacts', 'Advanced Search', and 'About Us'. A search icon is also present. Below the header, the 'Advanced Search' title is followed by the prompt 'What are you looking for?'. The search form includes several sections: 'Keyword' and 'Location' input fields; a 'Date' section with radio buttons for 'Specific Date' (10/15/2018) and 'Date Range' (10/15/2017 to 10/15/2018); an 'Event' section with radio buttons for 'Festival', 'Conference', 'Ceremony', 'Honeymoon', 'Wedding', 'Party', 'Concert', and 'Other' (with an input field); and a 'Person' section with a 'Full Name' input field and an 'Add more' button with a plus icon. At the bottom of the form are 'Reset Searches', 'Apply', and 'Cancel' buttons. The footer contains 'Support: Email or phone', 'copyrights @ Family Historical Artefacts Registry', and social media icons for Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, and Email.

The advanced search is a full search of the artefacts. It finds the artefacts where it stores in the system. The users can look for the particular artefacts when they fill the words in the Advanced Search. There are two sections on the page such as searching information and the controlling “Advanced search” page. In term of searching information, the users will type the words related to artefacts and events name, and location of artefacts or events into the “Keyword” and “Location” part. The users can select either specific date or date range to find out the artefact. The date is the date the users create the artefact. The list of event is shown, the users will choose the event by clicking on the circle button. If the event is not listed, they can select “other” text and type particular events. Besides, the user can add the person in the Advanced Search. It is noted that the information fields have to be filled at least one part and cannot be empty all fields. With regard to the controlling page, the users, after providing the information above, can apply to make the system finding the artefacts that would be linked to “Artefacts” page or reset searching to be clear the form above or even cancel the whole process.
